Details of the Programs

The Education and Training Department offers three programs of teacher education:

i). Integrated Teacher Education Program (ITEP)

- A recent addition to the department's offerings, the Integrated Teacher Education Program (ITEP) was introduced in the academic year 2023. The ITEP program spans four years and encompasses eight semesters of study. It's a dual-major bachelor's degree programme, featuring one major in Education and another in a chosen disciplinary or interdisciplinary field. The ITEP curriculum and pedagogical approaches are guided by the core principles of the NEP 2020.

This program is designed to provide a holistic and integrated approach to teacher education. The ITEP program aims to foster higher-order thinking skills in students, including problem-solving, critical thinking, creative thinking, communication, ethical reasoning, and moral judgment. These capacities are integral to the comprehensive preparation of proficient teacher educators.

ITEP aims to offer students a well-rounded understanding of educational theories, practical teaching strategies, and contemporary issues in education. It prepares aspiring educators for the evolving challenges and opportunities within the modern educational landscape.

The four-year Integrated Teacher Education Programme (ITEP) envisions the creation of passionate, motivated, qualified, professionally trained, and well-equipped teachers capable of designing and implementing developmentally appropriate learning experiences for students at different stages of school education. The ITEP seeks to ensure that the prospective teachers are given the highest quality education in content, pedagogy, values, and practice.

With these three programs, the Department of Education and Training not only caters to the foundational and advanced educational needs of students but also embraces innovation with the introduction of ITEP, aligning with the dynamic requirements of the education sector. Beyond conventional pedagogical approaches, the department actively integrates innovative practices within the domain of teacher education. This strategic embrace of innovation aligns with the ever-evolving demands and complexities of the contemporary education sector.

ii) Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.)

- This undergraduate program h introduced since the academic year 2011-12, serves as a foundational platform for students aspiring to pursue a career in education. B.Ed. provides a comprehensive curriculum covering pedagogical methodologies, educational theories, and practical teaching experiences for Social Sciences, Commerce, Mathematics and Science students. It is designed to equip students with the essential skills and knowledge necessary for a successful career in teaching.

iii) M.A. (Education)

- Running concurrently with the B.Ed. program since 2011-12, the Master's in Education (M.A) program caters to the advanced academic needs of educators and professionals in the field. This postgraduate program delves deeper into specialized areas of education, research methodologies, and advanced concepts. It is tailored for individuals seeking a more in-depth understanding of educational practices and theories.

iv) Ph.D. in Education: The Doctoral Program in Department of Education & Training is a full course offered after M.Ed. or M.A in Education. The Doctoral Programme in Education aims to develop a systematic understanding of research in education.

In essence, these programs exemplify an academic initiative that seeks to prepare educators who are not only well-versed in traditional educational principles but also equipped to navigate and contribute to the evolving landscape of education through innovative pedagogical methods.
